

List of Contents

Acknowledgements	5
List of Contents	7
List of Tables and Figures	11
Glossary	13
List of Abbreviations	15
1 Introduction	17
2 Water Governance and Water Institutional Reform	21
2.1 From Water Management to Water Governance	21
2.1.1 The International Discourse on Water Management	21
2.1.2 Water Governance	24
2.2 Water Institutional Reform	27
3 Theoretical Framework: New Institutionalism	31
3.1 Approaches of New Institutionalism in Political Science	31
3.2 Institutions	33
3.2.1 Formal and Informal Institutions	34
3.2.2 Water Institutions and Institutional Environment	35
3.3 Institutional Change and Continuity	37
3.4 Problem Statement	41
4 Analytical framework	45
4.1 Neopatrimonialism	45
4.2 Policy Analysis	47

4.3	Implementation Research	51
4.4	Political Anthropology	53
4.5	Research Questions and Guiding Assumptions	54
5	Comparative Research Design	57
5.1	Method of Comparison and Case Selection	58
5.2	Methodology of Empirical Research and Analysis	60
5.3	Historical Institutions of Water Governance in Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan	69
5.4	The Shared Context of Water Governance in Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan	72
5.4.1	Economic Development and Structure	72
5.4.2	Water Resources and Water Usage	74
5.4.3	The Post-Soviet Challenge to Water Governance	78
5.5	Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan as Neopatrimonial Regimes	81
5.5.1	General Features of Neopatrimonialism in Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan	82
5.5.2	Institutions of Decision Making	90
5.5.3	Institutional Conditions of the Agricultural Sector	91
5.5.4	Institutions of Local Governance	97
5.5.5	Donor Policies as an Interfering Variable	101
5.5.6	Water-Institutional Linkages	102
5.6	Summary	104
6	Water Institutional Reforms in Kyrgyzstan	105
6.1	Administrative Structure and Key Actors of Water Governance	105
6.1.1	The Water Administration	105
6.1.2	Further Actors Involved	108
6.2	Problem Perceptions and Policy Objectives	110
6.3	Institutional Reforms	114
6.3.1	The National Water Strategy	114
6.3.2	General Legal Framework	116
6.3.3	Administrative Reorganization	120
6.3.4	Introduction of Market Mechanisms (Irrigation Service Fees)	125
6.3.5	Transfer of Irrigation Management	128
6.3.6	Summary	136

6.4	Effects of Neopatrimonialism on Water Institutional Reform	137
6.4.1	The Impact of Institutions of Decision Making on WIR	137
6.4.2	The impact of the Institutional Conditions of the Agricultural Sector on WIR	140
6.4.3	The Impact of Local Governance Institutions on WIR	143
6.4.4	The Impact of Water-Institutional Linkages on WIR	147
6.5	Summary	150
7	Water Institutional Reforms in Tajikistan	151
7.1	Administrative Structure and Key Actors in Water Governance	151
7.1.1	The Water Administration	151
7.1.2	Further Involved Actors	154
7.2	Problem Perception and Policy Objectives	156
7.3	Institutional Reforms	157
7.3.1	Formulation of a Policy Strategy	157
7.3.2	General Legal Framework	159
7.3.3	Introduction of Market Mechanisms (Irrigation Service Fees)	162
7.3.4	Transfer of Irrigation Management	164
7.3.5	Summary	172
7.4	Effects of Neopatrimonialism on WIR	173
7.4.1	The Impact of the Decision Making Institutions on WIR	173
7.4.2	The Impact of the Institutional Conditions of the Agricultural Sector on WIR ..	174
7.4.3	The Impact of Local Governance Institutions on WIR	177
7.4.4	The Impact of Water-Institutional Linkages on WIR	180
7.5	Summary	183
8	Comparing the Politics of Water Institutional Reform	185
8.1	Water Governance and Water Institutional Reforms in Kyrgyzstan and
	Tajikistan	185
8.2	Effects of Neopatrimonialism on Water Institutional Reform	188
8.3	Introducing Economic Mechanisms: from Free Usage to Payment for Service	197
8.4	Restructuring Administration: from Administrative and Hierarchical to
	Hydrographic and Inter-Sectoral Principles	199

8.5 Establishing Democratic Mechanisms: from State-Command System
to User Participation 201

8.6 Reflections on Institutional Change 203

8.7 General Inferences and Strategies for Water Institutional Reform 205

9 Conclusion 213

Bibliography 217

Annex 227